The Editor
Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel, Calif.
Dear Mrs. Cook:

I received a letter the other day from Harold Nielsen, President of the Carmel City School Board inviting me to attend the ceremony celebrating the opening of the Community Center at the High School. It was with considerable regret that I had to turn down this opportunity; I found it impossible to come because our Pacific Coast Athletic Conference has a meeting in Portland which is scheduled to open that same day. As the University of Oregon is one of the host schools for this meeting, it would not be advisable for me to be absent at that time.

I do want to express, through the columns of your paper if possible, my sincere congratulations to the community of Carmel in general and to the School Board in particular upon the completion of the Community Center on the High School grounds. Since leaving Carmel, it has been my privilege to do considerable traveling over the United States and I know that the citizens of Carmel will be gratified to learn that as a result of the fine leadership provided by the Carmel Board of Trustees, the Carmel Schools are considered outstanding in their academic progress as well as the fine facilities provided for the students, faculty members, and community. Certainly the opening of this outstanding Community Recreation Center marks another significant mile-stone in educational leadership at Carmel.

I hope you will pardon my saying that it gives me lots of personal pride to have played a small part in the development of Carmel schools. It was a privilege to have lived and worked in Carmel. Both my wife and I hope to return some day.

Again expressing my regrets at being unable to attend the opening ceremony and at the same time congratulating you on the completion of this very worthwhile project, I am

Sincerely yours,
Leo A. Harris
Athletic Director.

Fiesta Is Voted A Great Success

A crowd of several hundred persons attended Carmel Valley's first annual Fiesta de Los Amigos last Sunday and voted it a huge success.

The festivities began in the morning with a pet parade for the children and this was followed by a junior rodeo at the Holman Ranch.

At 4:30 barbecues were held at the Fiesta grounds in La Ranchería tract and at the Carmel Valley Inn. Entertainment was given under the direction of Larry Moore and the day ended with a dance at the Inn.

Gala Program Scheduled For New Pool

Following the end of school and graduation of the high school class of '49 tonight, all eyes will turn to the grand opening of the long-awaited high school swimming pool center Sunday afternoon.

A gala program to celebrate the completion of the aquatic project will commence at 1 p. m. Sunday, with hundreds expected to turn out for speeches and a swim.

Harold Nielsen, president of the school board, has arranged for talks by Mayor Fred Godwin, Trustee Peter Ferrante and Architect Ernest Kump. The school band will provide music.

The Carmel Lions Club, which raised funds to pay for radiant heating on the decks around the two pools, will give away a new automobile and an automatic washer as the climax of their campaign to finance the project.

A special feature of the program will be comedy, diving and racing demonstrations by 14 young swimmers from the Olympic Club of San Francisco. The Monterey and Carmel high school swimming teams also will participate.

"Pop" Smith, a noted swimmer in his day, will prove he can still cavort in the water at the age of 74. Other ages down to kindergarten also will show their aquatic prowess.

The public will then be invited to try a swim. The pools will be open under the summer recreation program, and several afternoons a week will be set aside for public use at a nominal fee.

Commission Votes Approval Of Rezoning

The Monterey County Planning Commission voted at last Monday's meeting to approve the extension of commercial zoning at the intersection of Highway 1 and the Carmel Valley turnoff, despite the fact that there were more than 100 objectors from this area in the audience. The vote was 6 to 1, with the only dissenter being District Attorney Anthony Brazil.

Among the few in the audience who were in favor of the rezoning were Jack Morris, who plans a golf driving range there, and his attorney, Charles McHarry.

Among those who argued against the move were members of Carmel Unincorporated, Miss Orre Hazeltine of Carmel Valley, Col. Alfred Balsam of the Highlands, Gunnar Norberg, Fred Farr and Corum Jackson.

The next move on the issue will be the recommendation by the Planning Commission to the Board of Supervisors. The Board meets next Monday.

A standing vote taken at the meeting indicated that most of the people there opposed the rezoning. The matter has been in controversy for the past several months.

Opposition leaders announced that they will appeal the decision at the July 1 meeting of the Board of Supervisors. When the matter is brought up at Monday's meeting, the July date will be set for the hearing which will take place at the court house at 2 p. m.

Dr. A. L. Van Meter, zoning chairman of Carmel Unincorporated, will head the group.

Music And The Other Arts

BY DAVID ALBERTO

To understand a man it is well to know the environment in which he lived and of equal importance to trace the forerunners of the period. In attempting to comprehend the processes which influenced Bach as he embraced the forms which distinguish his music let us speculate as to how it all came about. Through the Meistersinger we obtain a glimpse of the methodical, involved systems which served to influence the forerunners of the great master. We may even continue to speculate upon the conditions that resulted in the infinite number of rules and laws which created the methods of composition employed by Hans Sachs. We may even imagine the mathematical formulae of Pythagoras as bearing upon those musicians though personally, I choose to believe that Hans Sachs likely never heard of Pythagoras. How then did the musical laws of this Greek and this German come into being? In answer I can only suppose that nature in each instance produced what is technically termed a "sport" and that both these men, so outstanding, possessed such superior qualities other men were willing, without questioning, to adopt their conclusions concerning what should or should not be acceptable as art. To arrive at this conclusion so abruptly will probably not satisfy the Watson enthusiasts of today who believe the individual is but the result of the environment in which he is reared. Fortunately these same followers of Mr. Watson are equally willing to admit that the individual is but the sum total of his glandular secretions, which, in turn is a rather unfortunate confession tending to destroy, or at least adversely affect, the theory of the illustrious psychologist.

However this paper should deal solely with aesthetic matters and I was speaking of Pythagoras and Hans Sachs. In order to fix a starting point let me again reiterate—these were exceptional men of keen aesthetic judgment whose activities had somewhat colored the world into which the gentle, powerful, phenomenon Johann Sebastian Bach was born, to become the father of instrumental music and the unsurpassed master of polyphonic composition, the highest form of which is the fugue.

Today the piano is most apt to have an influence upon composition—in Bach's time it was the human voice which dominated the composer's intentions and impelled him to write in a vocal style. Consequently a considerable portion of the earlier music consists of several voices or melodic lines flowing along simultaneously — polyphonic or many voiced music conceived along parallel lines or horizontally. As the pianoforte was gradually perfected, evolving from the thin spinet of Bach's time to the orchestral instrument which we know today, composers either consciously or intuitively ceased thinking exclusively in horizontal

Violators To Be Prosecuted Immediately

Violators of the zoning ordinance will be immediately prosecuted, following an order from the city council at Wednesday night's meeting.

Councilman Allen Knight requested a report from City Attorney William Hudson as to what had been done about the violators, after a decision had been made at the last meeting. It was learned that a certain amount of leniency had been granted to the known violators. The council as a whole demanded action and announced that the ax will fall immediately when sufficient proof is offered that the zoning laws here have been broken.

A report on the traffic near the Dolores street school was heard and there was great emphasis placed on the problem of traffic control, particularly at Camino Del Monte where children cross the street.

It was decided to ask the State Highway Division to change the directional sign on Highway 1 so that passenger traffic would continue on the highway until the head of Ocean Avenue. It was also requested that the council be told the type of sign to be placed there. Trucks will continue to turn to the right.

Consent was given concerning the application by the County of Monterey to include Carmel in the mosquito abatement area; the city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance regulating flood lighting, similar to the one controlling electric lighting; title-clear tax deed lots will be sold at public auction, it was decided, but at market prices which have been appraised by the realty board. Councilman Donald Craig was granted a leave of absence for a trip to Mexico this summer, and Mayor Fred Godwin announced that he was leaving for Hawthorne in Southern California to inspect the boys' club there. He will make a report on the project at the next meeting.

Budget Increase Accepted By School Board

Meeting Tuesday night in regular session, the Carmel Unified School District board of trustees accepted a budget for 1949-1950 which allows an increase of $36,411 over the past school year. The tentative budget is for the amount of $338,000, but even with the increase it is not expected that a tax rate increase will be necessary.

Peter Mawdsley, financial advisor, presented the budget. Final adoption will not be until August 5. Increases are for additional teachers for the Dolores street school, swimming pool operating costs, general maintenance and transportation.

It was decided to call for bids for a 30-passenger school bus instead of one carrying 50 passengers. Stuart Mitchell, principal, said that the cost of the vehicle would be in the neighborhood of $5,000.

The board approved the rental of Sunset Auditorium to Edward Kuster for a weekly rate of $150 from July 25 until sometime in September, not later than September 10.

The balance of the meeting was concerned with routine business.

Big Sur Harbor Site Recommended

Fifteen proposed harbors for light-draft vessels along Northern California coast between Monterey county and the Oregon line have been recommended for further investigation by the Army's Corps of Engineers, the State Chamber of Commerce announced today, following Engineer Corps report of preliminary studies. The State Chamber is active in a program to establish a chain of such harbors along the California coast line to accommodate pleasure craft and commercial fishing vessels.

Among the sites recommended is Cape San Martin, Monterey county; mouth of Big Sur River, Monterey County.

KEEP THE BEACH CLEAN

Mrs. Gunnar Norberg was strolling on the beach one afternoon this week with her children, and reports that it is still littered, not only with beer bottles and cans, but with fragments of broken glass, making it extremely unsafe and hazardous. Within a space of five feet she picked up a paper sack full of pieces of broken glass and brought the collection into the Pine Cone for proof. Won't those who are using the beach for enjoyment please cooperate and keep it clean?

Ord Men Join Volunteers In Fire Fighting

Approximately 200 men from Ft. Ord joined Federal and State Forestry crews, Seabees and volunteers in fighting a forest fire that was raging over approximately 3,000 acres of forest land in Santa Barbara county. The fire broke out Sunday morning.

Richard Flynn, of the State Forestry Service, in Monterey, stated Monday that the fire was considered "about 75 per cent under control."

In response to a call from Forestry officials Sunday, an initial group of 100 men under the direction of Maj. R. J. Billado, of the 8th Inf. Regt. left Ft. Ord by bus Sunday at 8:30 p. m. A second "relief" group of approximately 100 men left at 5 a. m. Monday.

Flynn expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the Ft. Ord troops and stated that he had never seen such "smooth functioning" as the rapid manner in which the troops were sent to the fire area.

MIYAMOTO HURLS PINE CONE TO VICTORY OVER MASSERAS

In a fast, well-played softball game, the Pine Cone copped their second Bay League game by downing the Masseras All-Stars, 3 to 2. Played at Sunset Field, the game was witnessed by over 400 enthusiastic softball filberts. The Watsonville club fielded a fast clever team which hustled all the way. Brilliant clutch pitching by Ky Miyamoto kept the visitors away from scoring territory during the first six innings. Although occasional streaks of wildness put runners on the paths, Ky bore down when the pitches counted.

The Pine Cone dented the platter for three tallies in the fifth frame when "Duke" Dufur connected for a double with two aboard and the Coners engineered a double steal. Three other Pine Cone hitters garnered legitimate blows off the offerings of the good Massera hurler. Walt Frey, Ky Miyamoto, and Jay Huffman each picked up singles.

Going into the seventh inning, the Pine Cone enjoyed a three run lead which appeared very substantial. Ky had pitched no-hit ball to this point and was shooting for the pitcher's delight. However, the always-dangerous Watsonville hitter put together a walk and a brace of singles to score two runs. The visitors had the tying run on base, but the old master bore down and struck out the last hitter.

SALINAS SPORTSMEN UPSET PINE CONE, 3 TO 1

Nifty pitching by Fred Zinani and potent stickwork by brother Lou proved too tough a combination for the Pine Cone to hurdle last Monday night and the Salinas Sportsmen handed the locals their first Bay League softball loss. Fred was stingy with the base blows, allowing only two legitimate pokes, a single by Gordy Miyamoto and a rousing double by Joe Nicholson. Ky ran into one rough inning which saw the visitors push two runs across on a single, a double, and a well-hit triple. Lou Zinani, hefty Sport first sacker, laid the wood on the triple which bounced against the school house. Miyamoto struck out 13 and allowed 4 hits, while Zinani struck out two and allowed the brace of hits.

The Pine Cone loss leaves the Don Castros as the only undefeated team in the Bay League. The Dons and Pine Cone meet at Castroville next Wednesday night.

W&J AND HOLMAN'S CLASH AT PG TOMORROW NIGHT

Inter-city rivalry flares up tomorrow night at Pacific Grove when the W&J Plumbers and Holman's softball teams meet in an 8:30 tussle. Holman's tops the Pacific Grove Recreation Softball League, while the Plumbers are resting near the top in the newly organized Bay League. Rich Oyama, recent graduate from Monterey High School, will match pitches with Clyde Wolfe, a recent graduate from Taft Junior College. Holman's has banded together the best softball talent out of Monterey and Pacific Grove to field a potent aggregation capable of holding their own in fast company. Wilder & Jones will field the same gang which represents the Plumbers in the Bay League. A preliminary tilt between the Eagles and Salinas Blues will get under way at 7 o'clock.

DON CASTROS NIP W&J IN SOFTBALL THRILLER

Whitey Moore versus Clyde Walker. That was the hurling duel served up to the Castroville softball fans last Saturday night at the artichoke capital. Just as everybody figured, the game was touch and go all the way, with the Dons capitalizing on two fielding miscues to tally two big runs for the 2-1 victory. W&J got off to a flying start in the initial canto when their leadoff man circled the bases on a series of Don Castro boots. The Dons evened the count in the third frame, grabbing an unearned run off two plumber boots. Another fielding muff in the fourth heat allowed Castroville to romp in with the winning run and put them atop the Bay League standings.

Moore was in rare pitching form, striking out 15 W&J swingers and allowing only two hits, both by Lou Sanders. Walker matched the brilliant hurling of Moore, but was scuttled by the brilliant bunting exhibition put on by the Castro stickmen.

A banner crowd turned out to watch these two teams battle for first place spot. With all teams playing topflight ball and putting on tight thrilling games, it looks like the Bay League is off to a good start in its initial season of play.

AFTERNOON SWIMMING FOR CHILDREN AT HIGH SCHOOL POOLS NEXT WEEK

Although the Unified School District's summer recreation program does not start until June 20, students will have an opportunity to enjoy the new high school pools a week in advance. Starting Monday afternoon, June 13, school age children can swim from 1 to 4 p. m. To defray life guard and locker room costs, a 15 cents admission charge will be levied. Swimmers must furnish their own suits and towels. Instruction classes will not begin until June 20 when the entire summer program gets under way.

Still Lifes By Leslie Buck Are Being Shown At Carmel Art Gallery

Still Lifes by Leslie Buck are being shown at the Carmel Art Gallery until June 15, it was announced this week by Mrs. Nellie Montague, curator. About Leslie Buck:

She was born in Chicago, Illinois and from early childhood showed an unusual talent for drawing and painting. Her maternal grandmother and great-grandmother were both gifted artists. During the Civil War her grandmother was sketching the Union fleet at anchor and was arrested by the military police. She asked to be taken to Admiral Farragut who was a close friend. He vouched for her character and her loyalty and arranged for her to be escorted to safety with the admontion not to paint or sketch any Government property during wartime. The father of Leslie Buck was a talented composer and pianist but found it necessary to forsake his art to support a family. Therefore, when she finished school he insisted she prepare herself for a business career instead of a career in art as she had planned for many years.

Finishing a secretarial course and obtaining a position in a law office Leslie Buck entered the Chicago Art Institue night school. In 1930 she saw an exhibition of Claude Buck's work and was greatly impressed by its Old Master quality. She began to study with him. In 1935 she submitted her first work to the annual Chicago Art Institute exhibition and it was accepted. She became a regular contributor and exhibitor there. In 1937 she became a member of the Chicago Galleries Association and the Chicago Society of Painters and Sculptors, the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts, the Society for Sanity in Art and others.

She is permanently represented in the Vanderpool gallery, Chicago, and has had works purchased by many important eastern collectors. Her work has been exhibited in numerous one-man shows: Chicago Galleries Assn., Vanderpool Gal-Westlery, Tudor Gallery of the Chicago Woman's Club, Mandel Brothers Gallery, Hamilton Club and in the West since 1943 at the Crocker Gallery, Sacramento, Graves Gallery, San Francisco, and has exhibited in New York City, the Palace of the Legion of Honor, Oakland Art Gallery, Laguna Beach, Santa Cruz Annual Exhibitioons and Carmel. She has received prizes and honorable mentioons both in Chicago and on the west coast.

Film Notable Here

The Peninsula continues to be a popular holiday spot for Hollywood's film colony, and a week seldom passes without a glimpse of one or two well-known faces. Mr. and Mrs. William Dozier (Joan Fontaine) were at the Lodge this week, as were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Raymond (Jeannette McDonald.) Someone spied Mr. and Mrs. John Agar (Shirley Temple) dining with Dr. Joel Pressman (Claudette Colbert's husband), and it's a rare month when you don't see Greer Garson's vivid head ducking in and out of Carmel shops.

Russell Guests

Guests at the Carmel Valley Ranch of Mrs. Henry Potter Russell this week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fay, Jr., Dr. Cabot Brown and Dave Hurlburt. Activities of the guests included a luncheon given by Mrs. Russell and a dinner party in their honor given by Colonel and Mrs. Harold Mack.

As The Pine Cone went to press word was received of the death of Ellsworth Angier, popular Carmel man, near Lodi while on a fishing trip. Apparently, death was caused by a heart attack.

Los Padres Forest Fire Restrictions Are In Effect Today

Summer fire restrictions are scheduled to be placed in effect on Los Padres National Forest beginning today.

It will be necessary to secure a campfire permit before building any fires in National Forest campgrounds, including gasoline stoves. No open fires are allowed in Los Padres National Forest.

Campfire permits may be obtained free of charge at any Forest Service station, offices of the Automobile Clusb and cooperating fire control agencies.

Smoking will be prohibited except in specially designated smoking areas, campgrounds and places of human habitation. State law prohibits the throwing of burning tobacco from moving vehicles along highways.

The shooting of fireworks is not allowed within the boundaries of the National Forest and tracer ammunition is also banned from forest lands.

Closures affecting certain portions of Los Padres Forest will, unless the fire hazards become much greater, be put into effect on July 1.

The possibilities of fires this summer is again extremely high. Everyone is urged to cooperate in the prevention of fires and to report those discovered immediately to the nearest forest officer or ranger station.

YOUNG PIANISTS' RECITAL

Unencumbered by the inhibiting influence of their parents, seven of the youngest pupils of Elayne Lavrans Hopper met at her home last week to play their favorite compositions for one another. Their teacher reports that each young artist was greeted with reserved approval by her fellow pupils. Following the recital, the youngsters played musical games, which met with unqualified approval, and were treated to ice cream and cookies.

The young pianists, none of whom has studied over a year and a half, were Alice Williams, Durell Decker, Mary Kay Denman, Aubrey Degnan, Patty Elston, Donna Work and Julie Work. Lucinda Lloyd was guest and critic.

Music And The Other Arts

lines and harmonic or perpendicular musical thought was born.

The manner in which musical thought evolved from a lateral to vertical direction may be more readily understood if one imagines the composer of today sitting before an instrument where many tones may be simultaneously sounded without effort and contrast this act with the manner in which the composer of the past, unable to produce more than a single or at best two tones upon a single instrument, was compelled to conceive his more massive ideas as only possible of reproduction through employing a multiplicity of instruments. Of course, Bach did have his tiny spinet and could sound chords, but he doubtless was still subject to the influence of an earlier period and the organ is of a nature tending to induce rather than destroy vocal concepts.

So we naturally find the great master of the fugue, thinking usually in fugal or at least polyphonic style. But the art of music was evolving and, due to the cause which has been intimated, or, likely because of another mysterious reason too subtle to fathom, the creative minds of the music-makers turned from horizontal to perpendicular concepts and the music of Mozart and Haydn was born.

FIRE CONTROLLED

The disastrous fire at Beartrap Canyon near Bixby Creek which cost the lives of two men and caused damage amounting to almost $100,000 is now under control, according to officials of the State Forestry Division. The two men who died in the fire when they were trapped there by the onsweeping flames were Carl Jarschke and George Wyrick.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Have you ever noticed how many of the books on gardening are answer books? I mean they give answers but not questions. Someone ought to reverse the process and write a garden book that is all questions and no answers. In case you're interested to try it, here are a few samples of questions to be included.

When a kinky hose straightens out why does it always turn over and snag one of your most precious plants when it could have turned over in any other of a dozen directions?

Why does a volunteer tomato plant come up later, grow faster, mature earlier and produce better and more abundant fruits than do those plants so laboriously raised by hand and spoon fed? Dame Nature does have her own secret ways.

If you are thinning carrots and two plants, one sturdy and one puny, are growing close together and you try to pull out the weakling, why does it so often happen that you either pull up the strong one and leave the spindly child or else you pull out both of them? Could be clumsiness, I suppose.

Maybe you've cut off a fine head of leaf lettuce. You note two snails and shake the moff and promptly scrunch them. Perhaps you put the head under the faucet to wash it and a couple more snails tumble out. You bring it into the kitchen sink and your spouse starts getting it ready for the refrigerator. Then, and only then appears the last Mr. Snail in all his oozy glory. Why couldn't and why didn't he appear with his other slimy playmates?

One year you spray your peach trees faithfully according to schedule. The following season you have only the slightest suggestion of curly-leaf. The next winter and spring, proud of your earlier success, you again spray with zeal and faith according to schedule. Alas and alack! That season your peach trees break out all over with the cancerous growths. Now why? That is at least a thirty-two dollar question.

If your pole beans are planted further away from a bush or a hedge than the distance between the poles, why do the vines wander over and climb the bushes instead of the poles?

See how easy it would be to write that question book?

Ex-Oregonians seem to make up a good deal of the population of Carmel, or at least spend a large part of the year here, and every Portland visitor is a fine excuse for get-togethers to catch up on news. On Tuesday Mrs. Katherine O'Neill, who will soon leave for a stay in the north, entertained at a luncheon for Mrs. Nonie Mackenzie, who divides her time between her parents' ranch near Portland, Carmel, and the southern part of the state. Stamp Club News

The Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club met at Sunset School Monday evening, with Colonel John Wright presiding at the gathering of philatelists who had come from as far as Salinas. A door prize, donated by Junior Stamp Club member Jimmy Farrell, was won by Colonel William B. Graham.

Mrs. Nora Law gave a talk on the Philatelic Museum, which recently opened in Philadelphia under the sponsorship of Temple University, the only institution offering a two year course in philately leading to a degree. Of particular interest to Stamp Club members were such Museum features as specially constructed vaults, the Government exhibit, dehumified vaults, and the manner in which exhibits are lighted. Mrs. Law presented a brochure showing the Museum's current exhibit of the French Centenary stamps.

L. S. Stallings used 28 stamps of the U. S. 1948 issue to conduct a type of poll, in which members voted for their choice of the best (or worst) stamp issued. On the basis of clarity, design, color, etc., the Rough Rider stamp was voted best, with the Lincoln Gettysburg and the Four Chaplains taking second and third respectively. The Poultry stamp was voted a unanimous "worst."

The Stamp Club will meet next for an auction on June 20 at 8:00 p. m. in Sunset School Library. New members will be welcome. The July 4 meeting will be omitted, and the following meeting will be held July 18. The club will meet throughout the summer.

The Junior Stamp Club will meet on Saturday, June 18, in Sunset School Library at 11 a. m.

Students Of Musical Art Club Show High Degree Of Promise In Concert

By Eben Whittlesey

The annual student concert of the Musical Art Club held on Thursday evening June 2 at the Carmel Women's Club, included individual performances of a quality to give pleasure not only to the tolerant friends and relations present, but also to the more critical members of the audience. President Angie Machado and her committee had chosen a program of pleasing variety and moderate length. Piano, violin and vocal solos were interspersed with dance numbers and instrumental ensemble music.

The program opened with a woodwind trio consisting of flute, clarinet and basoon, played by Patricia Timbers, Sue McCloud and Hilary Carnson, all of Carmel High School. Their playing of a Bach gavotte and sinfonia showed painstaking preparation and fairly smooth execution, if somewhat lacking in color and spontaniety. They were followed by a 15 year old freshman at Monterey High School, Amy Mauzey who sang the Little Shepherd Song of Watts, and the familiar Spirit-Flower by Campbell-Tiptoon. This young lady, who has only studied for a short time displayed a pleasing vocal quality, much musical feeling and considerable poise. She has a firm tone and an effortless manner which is unusual in a singer of such limited experience. Her high notes and forte phrases were produced firmly and without strain.

Patsy Ramsey, a promising young dancer from Pacific Grove whirled her way through the Air de Ballet by Herbert and the Chopin Waltz in C sharp minor, in a promising manner. She has a familiarity with the classic style, good use of her hands, but will benefit as she gains more expressiono.. Limited space and somewhat inadequate lighting rather handicapped the dancers on the program.

After the intermission a very promising young violinist in the person of June Canoles thoroughly won her audience with a fluent reading of the Handel Sonata in D. Accompanied by Ralph Forbes, the young artist developed a solid tone with smooth shading and sharp attack. Her rhythm was constant and the gracenotes beloved by classic composers were not slighted or blurred. She seemed to possess a clear understanding of the musical structure of her selection, an attribute often lacking in otherwise brilliant young artists. This rather ambitious selection was followed by Borowski's "Adoration", played with warmth and effective phrasing.

June Kocher, a senior at Carmel High School, maintained the high standard of the evening with her piano solos, with her piano selections, French Suite No. 6 by Bach, and "The Little White Donkey" by Ibert. In the Bach selection she maintained balance and the steady pace which this music demands, but which is sometimes harder to achieve than one would suppose. Her attack, shading and emphasis were firm and effective. In the second selection there was plenty of delicacy and whimsy in the artist's manner.

As a closing feature, two Spanish dances were presented by Ladisla Narvaez. This young lady has really passed out of the student class, except in the sense that an artist must remain a student all her life. She gave a thoroughly finished performance, notable for good use of castinets, skillful handling of her cape and mobile facial expressioons. Several of the artists were ably accompanied by Miss Machado.

Perhaps the hardest assignment of the evening was attempted by the woodwind trio. Effective ensemble work requires more skill than one might think, and from this point of view it fully measured up to the other performances. The program was well arranged and afforded unexpectedly good entertainment.

Ruth Cooke Song Program To Be Sunday Night

On Sunday evening, June 12, at the Carmel Woman's Club, Ruth Hill Cooke will present a program of songs for the benefit of needy in Finland.

All types of songs are represented on the program. It starts with a group of composers of the eighteenth century, ending with Beethoven. After that comes five German Lieder by the composer Robert Franz, who, though a spiritual kinsman of Schubert and Schumann in the world of song composers, is little heard these days.

Concluding the first half of the program, Scandinavian music, including melodies of Grieg and Sinding, will be presented, along with what might me regarded as a hymn of faith adapted to a major theme of "Finlandia" by Sibelius.

The program in its entirety is as follows:

Bois Epais, Lulli; Two Bergerettes, Weckerlin; Rendi Mi, Rossi; In Questa Tomba, Beethoven.

Gute Nacht, Maegdlein, Fur Musik, Es Hat Die Rose, and Im Herbst, Franz.

The Swan, Grieg; The Snow, Lie; The Gull, Sinding; Apple Blossoms, Swedish folk song; Finland's Faith, Sibelius.

Amour, Goddard; Beau Soir, Debussy; L'Heure Exquise, Poldowsky; Ouvre Tes Yeux Bleus, Massenet.

Hindu Love Song, Batten; Before the Crucifix, LaForge; The Second Minuet, Cramer; The Blackbird's Song, Whelpley.

The price of tickets is one dollar, plus tax. They are obtainable at Abinante's Lial's, and Wurzmann's.

Noel Sullivan will be the accompanist.

Hungarian Hypnotist Here On June 25

Franz Polgar, celebrated mind reader and hypnotist who will perform at Sunset Auditorium, Carmel, Saturday night only, June 25, served in the Hungarian army in the first World War, and was wounded at the Italian front by a shell which blacked out his memory for six months. When he recovered at the base hospital in Graz, Austria, he found himself gifted with the power of telepathy and hypnotism. European magazines wrote up his case, and his fame spread.

Polgar studied psychology under the late Sigmund Freud at the University of Budapest, and then came to the United States, where he has appeared at leading theaters and Town Hall forums, and more recently in soldout performances at Carnegie Hall, New York.

His program, given in three parts, consists of memory miracles, mind reading and mass hypnotism. "America's greatest one man show," said the Saturday Evening Post.

Polgar now rates with the late Houdini, and with Ruth Draper and Cornelia Otis Skinner, as a solo entertainer.

Tickets for his Sunset Auditorium performance are now on sale at Abinante's—at Sixth and Dolores, in Carmel, phone 429-J, and at 425 Alvarado, in Monterey, phone 9894. Polgar is coming to Carmel under the local management of Miss Zaida Martin.

Do You Remember . . . ?

BACK TO PARIS

By A. G. Warshawsky

From the time-table we had gathered that our train was direct from Milan to Paris, where we should arrive about midday. But with the departure from Milan our troubles began. Halpert had carelessly placed the two bottles with our precious drinking supply under one of the seats. Came an abrupt curve—a crash of broken glass, and a small inundation on the floor. Our hopes of liquid refreshment were dashed indeed, and the thought of dry bread and cheese no comfort.

To cap the climax, we were told on our arrival at Basle late that night that the third-class coaches would be detached and go no further, only first and second-class passengers being conveyed direct to Paris. The next train with third-class accommodation would not leave until the following afternoon at two o'clock. We were up against it! We had no money to pay for a room at a hotel, nor was there even the possibility of passing the night in the cold, cheerless station, as it was about to close up after the train pulled out.

The thought of wandering about the cold Swiss city, without food or shelter, was too appalling. So, deciding to chance it, we hastily transferred our voluminous baggage to a second-class carriage at the last moment before the train started. As there was no room in any of the compartments, we had to pile our luggage in the corridor and sit on our valises. Nor was that the end of our troubles, for we had still to deal with the conductor. When that official shortly afterwards asked for our tickets and discovered we were third-class passengers, we thought he would choke with indignation. What did we mean by intruding into the second-class with inferior tickets! Unheeding our meek and patient explanations that the schedule had read we were to be taken straight on to Paris, he hurried off and returned with another official. After heated argument and debate, it was announced we should be put off at the next station.

Fortunately, Providence in the shape of a kindly English traveler intervened in our favor. Hearing us from his compartment speaking in English, he came out to inquire what the trouble was. When he heard of ourd ilemma and lack of funds, he tried at first to placate the irate officials. When that did not help matters, he very kindly offered to pay the difference of our fares second-class as far as the French frontier, saying we could pay him back in Paris, where he would spend a few days. We could hardly thank him adequately, so great was our relief. Needless to say, we lost no time in acquitting ourselves of our debt when we arrived in Paris.

On crossing into France the same comedy had to be enacted with the French officials. But here Halpert was on his own ground, so to speak, as he was able to present our case in fluent French. The conductor, though polite and even sympathetic, informed us that rules could not be circumvented and that we should have to pay if we remained on the train. But after further pleading, he relaxed to the extent of allowing us to continue our journey to Paris, but said he would report the matter by telegram to the station authorities and that, on arriving, we should have to answer to them for infringing the rules of the company.

Fortunately, we were able to quench our burning thirst with water from the station pumps when the train stopped. But we were weary, hungry, and depressed when finally we steamed into Paris at noon.

On alighting from the train we were met by a pompous official and two bulky gendarmes, who seized upon us. Feeling like two criminals who had robbed the Bank of France, we were unceremoniously ushered into the presence of the "chef de gare," under the curious glances of the station throng, who naturally supposed that we had fallen foul of the law. After being kept waiting while our case was being looked into by the assembled authorities, we were demanded to give an explanation of our reprehensible conduct. Halpert again explained and pleaded our case, and as further proof that we were not hardened swindlers, but poor, honest artists, pointed to our paint-boxes and sketches.

This bit of special pleading in the sacred name of art, elicited smiles. The added fact that we were American art students also stood in our favor, and we were finally told we should be allowed a week to pay up the deficit. Then, after our names and addresses had been taken, we were set free, evidently to the disgust of the scowling gendarme, who had been holding on to my arm.

As it was out of the question for us to carry our baggage from the station to Halpert's studio on the other side of the river, we deposited it in the parcel-room, and, with only our paint-boxes slung over our shoulders, started out for the Quarter.

It was a long tramp and the sun was uncomfortably hot. On all sides were tempting cafes, with shady terraces and cooling drinks. Paris was "en fete," gay with flags and bunting, in honor of the fourteenth of July, the national holiday, the celebrations for which extend over several days. At the street corners temporary platforms had been erected for the dance orchestras, for in the pre-war days street-balls were to be found throughout Paris during this period of national rejoicing. But there was no prospect of our joining in the good time, for neither of us expected to receive our monthly remittance for several days to come.

Wilting with heat and exhaustion, we finally arrived at Halpert's studio in the Rue Moulin-de-Beurre, where, with the help of wet towels, in lieu of a bath, we performed much needed ablutions. Rested and refreshed, the next question was how to still our ravening hunger, which the excitement of our arrival and the joy of homecoming had so far held in abeyance, but which now was not to be gainsaid. Unfortunately, Kleiminger, who had the adjoining studio, was out, so we had to turn elsewhere for temporary financial aid.

At Halpert's suggestion, we repaired to the American Artists' Club, then housed in what had once been the private hotel of the celebrated French paitner, Carolus Duran, John Sargent's master, at the corner of the Rue de la Grande Chaumiere and the Rue Notre Dam-des-Champs, in the hope of finding some of our acquaintances. But luck was still against us, for we were unable to discover a single familiar face. Finally we located the club secretary, Moscowitz, in the library, and to him confided our adventures and trouble. Our tale of woe promptly brought forth a golden Louis (twenty franc piece) which gave us joy and consolation. After a splendid repast and a "cafe noir" on the terrace of the Dome, we both felt once more in tune with the gaiety around us, and that all was well with the world in France.

The next day, a Thursday, was the thirteenth of July, and that night the public balls in the streets began. Every cafe terrace was crowded. Dancing couples disported themselves on the sidewalks and especially at the crossroads where the orchestras were established. Traffic was blocked and in some quarters suspended. "Paris s'amuse" in those happy days had a meaning that has been lost since the war and its aftermath of noisy, febrile pleasure-hunting. The era of jazz and cocktails seems to have, at least temporarily, killed the harmless gaiety of Parisian crowds, especially on public fete days. Strangers would accost one another without formality, and request to dance with an unknown fair one was seldom refused. Nowhere did I see a vestige of rowdyism nor drunkenness in the throngs at the cafes or among those dancing in the streets. The only cases of intoxication I remarked, to my regret, were among my compatriots and some of their English cousins.

PATTERN

Life makes a pattern, seldom seen
Until long after;
We look back and then behold
Brightness and laughter.
And we see gladness quickened by our tears
As tree and plant are quickened by the rain,
Then we perceive this truth: life is complete
Only when both descend.

—Frances Marley Bell.

SAGUARO SIGNPOSTS

Lonely the desert cactus stands,
Imploring the sun with upraised hands,
Beseeching the winds and the desert sands.

Lonely the traveler seeks his way
By these desert signposts, gaunt and gray—
He, too, lifting his arms to pray.

There by the light of a mesa moon
Saguaro grants him a priceless boon—
And her cup is life . . . on the desert dune.

—Blanche De Good Lofton.

WHAT A WORLD!

What a world we could have if we found out the way
To live without fear of each other!
If our deeds were the fruitage of faith and trust,
And our hopes were not cast on the wind like dust,
What a world! What a world!

What a world we could have! What a garden of peace!
With the wide blue seas to sail—
With the forests to roam and the crags to climb
And just enough work to be worthy of time,
What a world! What a world!

What a world we could have if we kept the great rules,
And lived as though earth were the chance
To create our own heaven. We are spoiling the tools
That were put in our hands. We are living askance.
What a world we shall have when we wake from our trance!
What a world! What a world!

Nonie Mackenzie Here

Mrs. Leonie Vial Mackenzie drove north on Wednesday following a week's visit at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vial, on Carmel Point. Mrs. Mackenzie spent the winter and spring months in La Jolla and will now return to St. Cloud Ranch, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Vial, on the Columbia River, for the summer. En route she plans brief visits with friends in Saratoga, San Francisco and Portland.

Mrs. Mackenzie, a frequent visitor, has many friends in Carmel and was widely entertained during her stay.

Smiths Hold Barbecue

Bob and Lily Smith proved last week end that they were not overly optimistic when they built a patio as large as their entire house, and the balmy weather went a long way toward helping them. Sliding glass doors opened up the house to make it one with the outdoor living room, and a glowing barbecue pit provided tempting fare for the guests, who will all swear that you can sit outside in Carmel until midnight without a coat. Joining in the fun, which included a hotly contested ping-pong tournament, were Bud and Kay Todd, Loli and George Willox, Georgie and Bert Taylor, Michelin Kelsey, Sam Colburn, Jane and Herb Vial, Marie Short, Florence Geisen, Carol Howard, Nonie MacKenzie, Lois Dunham, Toby Street and Jake Kenney, to say nothing of a number of very voluble offspring.

Hugo Bedau Graduates

Hugo A. Bedau, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo A. Bedau, will be among the graduates at the University of Redlands on June 15, when John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman, makes the commencement day address.

Hugo attended the University of Southern California before enrolling at Redlands, where he will receive his degree in philosophy. He is a member of Chi Sigma Chi fraternity and has been on the honor roll.

His parents and two sisters, Carol and Renee, will drive to Redlands Sunday to witness the graduation exercises, and Hugo will return to Carmel with them. He hopes to go to Europe this summer for further study, perhaps in Paris.

Music for Euterpean Society

The Euterpean Society of Monterey Peninsula College held its last meeting of the school year at the Hildebrand Studio in Carmel last week. Jeanine Viljoen welcomed the guests and gave a brief account of the club's activities during the past year. Carol Hildebrand, program chairman, then introduced the guest speaker, Henry Dunakin, local record columnist, who covered his topic, The Care and Selection of Good Recordings, briefly but thoroughly.

With reference to his statement that the waltz is one of the most charming and universally loved types of music, Mr. Dunakin played some of the world's best known waltzes from his collection. These covered over 200 years of musical composition, including Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Strauss, Offenbach and several contemporaries. All agreed that the evening had been an enjoyable and informative one, and the Euterpean Society hopes to present Mr. Dunakin again next year to additional Peninsula music lovers.

ON YOUR DIAL

NOW 1000 WATTS

New Frequency – Greater Power

AN OPEN LETTER TO RADIO LISTENERS OF THE MONTEREY PENINSULA

Radio Station KDON has NOT moved its broadcasting facilities out of Monterey. KDON still maintains the most modern broadcasting studios in this section of California. KDON Studios are still located at 468 Calle Principal, Monterey. Orel Phillips still "cuts up" in the morning from 6:30 to 7:30 and still broadcasts his shenanigans between 10:30 and 11:00 A.M. KDON still broadcasts the popular Monterey Peninsula local news at 12:00 Noon, along with complete world-wide and regional news every hour on the hour, supplemented by the "Breakfast News" at 7:30 A.M. and the popular "News in the Air" at 6:15 every evening.

KDON has moved its position on the dial to 1460 K.C. This was made necessary in order to secure more power. The old frequency, on which KDON has broadcast for years, is classifed by the Federal Communications Commission as a local channel, with a maximum power of only 250 watts. KDON moved to 1460 KC, classifed as a regional channel, which allows a station to broadcast with a maximum power of 5,000 Watts. In other words, to help clear up the confusion that may have resulted from this change, here are the facts: KDON has a new position on the dial, 1460 KC. KDON is still under the same management. KDON has increased its power from 250 Watts to 1000 Watts. Your favorite local radio personalities are still associated with KDON: Les Jacobsen, commercial manager, Orel Phillips, Chief Announcer; Omer Wright; Chief Engineer; Ronald Panton, Assistant Chief Engineer; John Mowbray, Program Director; James Abbe, noted News Commentator; Barbara Foster, Women's Programs; Barbara Heple, Children's Programs; Ivy Lauer, Women's Special Events; Muriel Hollman, Office Manager; Isabel Panton, Traffic Department; Ed Terry, Local Monterey Peninsula Sales, Ernie Russell, Sports Announcer.

KDON still maintains offices and the most modern broadcasting studios at 468 Calle Principal, Monterey. Remember, all you have to do to hear your favorite KDON programs is to tune KDON's new frequency, 1460.

KDON's new power increase means a potential audience increase to approximately one quarter million people and to KDON advertisers we wish to point out that this additional coverage, made possible by the increase in power from 250 Watts to 1000 Watts, with an increase to 5000 Watts by November, costs KDON advertiser no more. The same rates prevail.

For information on any questions, telephone Monterey 8501.

Sincerely,

REED POLLOCK,

General Manager.

Pfiesters Welcome Daughter

The war years reminded us that the children of service personnel are apt to have widely separated birthplaces, and a family in point is that of Lt. (jg) Charles W. Pfiester, who arrived in Carmel in February. The Pfiesters have a new baby daughter, Judith Louise, who was born on May 25 at the Fort Ord Station Hospital; her brother, Charles Junior, was born almost three years ago in Newport, Rhode Island. Since Lt. Pfiester is with this year's class at the Navy General Line School, the birthplaces of any future additions to the family will depend on the whims of the U. S. Navy.

Judith's maternal grandmother is Mrs. Rose Shank of Washington, D. C., and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clark Pfiester of Mahomet, Illinois.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Nourse of San Francisco have announced the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte, to John Roberts Martin of Carmel. The bride-elect, whose family is well known here, is a junior at Stanford University and is a member of Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honor society.

She has one sister, Shepley, who is associated with the Stanford University Press, and she is the niece of Massachusetts Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers. She is also a niece of Mrs. Alexander Lawrence Crosby, Assistant District Attorney Edith C. Wilson, and Miss Gladys Christensen, all of San Francisco.

Her fiance, known to his friends as Bob, is the son of Mrs. Helen Murphy Martin and the late John Roberts Martin. He is the grandson of Mrs. Henry Cloyde Murphy and the late Dr. Murphy, pioneer residents of Salinas. He has one sister, Zaida Martin, who lives in Carmel.

Bob is a graduate of Sunset and Carmel High Schools and the U. S. Maritime Academy in New York. Following naval service during the war, he entered the produce business in Salinas, where the couple plan to make their home. Wedding plans will await the completion of Charlotte's studies at Stanford.

Harvey Gardner Married

Miss Beverly Dowgiallo and her sister, Mrs. Marian Dunn, drove to Coronado last Friday with Lt. Robert Gibson to attend the wedding of their brother, Ensign Harvey Gardner, to Miss Gloria Lee Randolph. The formal military wedding was followed by a large reception for the couple, who met on Guam after the war, when Ensign Gardner was stationed there and his bride was in residence with her family.

The bride is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Ralph Randolph, while the groom is the son of Mrs. F. E. Dowgiallo of Carmel.

Toland Doud, who returned with the travelers on Monday evening, served as his friend's best man. Miss Dowgiallo was a bridesmaid, and Lt. Gibson sword bearer.

Following their wedding trip, Ensign and Mrs. Gardner will make their home in Alameda, where he is now stationed.

Phil Wettengel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell (Curly) Wettengel, arrived home Saturday night from the University of Oklahoma after the completion of his freshman year there. Driving with him were two fellow students, Dick Tendner, whose home is in the San Francisco bay area, and Stanley Moussa from Cairo, Egypt. After a telescoped tour of Carmel scenery, the two boys left on Sunday.

Mother Lode Tour

Mrs. Pat Allen and Mrs. Malita MacMurray left Monday to follow the historic trail through the old mining towns of the Mother Lode country, planning to stop as the fancy strikes them. Mrs. MacMurray, who makes her home in Beverly Hills, was extensively entertained during her visit in Carmel as Mrs. Allen's house guest.

George Gossler Home

George Gossler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gossler, will be home this weekend for a short visit before returning for the graduation exercises at the University of California on June 16, when his parents will travel to Berkeley to see him receive his diploma. George, number one man on the U. C. tennis team, received his degree in foreign trade in February but remained for additional work. Offers in the field of pro tennis have been pouring in, but George is still undecided as to immediate plans.

George's sister, Meta, and her husband, Frank Abbe, whose marriage took place in Reno in April, are now at home in Carmel but still house hunting, a currently familiar predicament.

USO Board Meets

The committee of management of the Monterey USO held a luncheon meeting at the El Estero USO building on Monday. Chairman E. W. Cochrane welcomed four new members to the committee, who are General Robert T. Frederick of Fort Ord, Captain T. J. Casey of the Navy General Line School, Father John T. Ryan of the San Carlos Mission and Harold McLean. John H. Reardon of the National Catholic Community Service was presented as a new staff member.

It was announced that Phyllis Carey Goodman, YMCA staff member, will leave on July 1 to join her husband. Iris Hall, who has just come from the Shanghai USO, will replace Mrs. Goodman.

The Monterey Garden Club will take the responsibility of furnishing the USO with flowers, completely decorating the club house once a week.

Members present discussed ways and means of obtaining a picture to be placed above the fireplace and of securing a good grand piano in order to attract fine pianists, since the piano now in use is adequate only for "everyday" use.

With the decision to make permanent the annual fall dance, with Jack Dougherty as chairman of this committee, General Frederick announced that the Soldiers' Club at Fort Ord would be made available to the USO for the events.

Robinson Guests

Mrs. Barbara Robinson had as her house guests this week her aunt and uncle, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Arthur G. Robinson. Admiral Robinson is en route to Washington, D. C., for duty after his recent return from Guam, where he was president of the board of trials.

Admiral Robinson's mother is Mrs. Clay Green, and his sister is Mrs. Philip Wilson, Jr., of Carmel Valley.

Partches on Holiday

A spectacular and sensational departure took place this week at Robles del Rio when Virgil and Helen Partch rounded up Nicholas, Anne, and the great dane, Medea, for the trip south to Balboa Island, where they plan to spend a month. It's supposed to be a holiday, but we don't imagine that Virgil will be able to resist his drawing board after a glimpse of the southern beaches.

While they are in Balboa their Carmel Valley home is being occupied by Mrs. Beverly Ward of San Jose.

The smartest homemakers in the world are today's California brides. They step forth from wedding aisles into modern homes where many electric servants help keep house the electrical way.

The bride of today becomes a good cook—automatically. Her coffee and her toast or a complete dinner are done to perfection by thermostat and timer.

Her automatic washing machine swishes clothes white and rinses them clean. Then the dryer tumbles them warm and dry (and what a blessing that is on a foggy or rainy day.)

Her food is preserved in the magical cold of a spacious refrigerator and food bargains are stored in a home freezer.

This is the wonderful age of electrical living...especially here in California where electricity does so much for so little money. Remember this...for wedding gifts this month or any month ...choose the ever acceptable electrical appliances.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

There are literally hundreds of varieties of daisies. To the uninitiate, the word daisy, means a medium sized flower, with yellow center and white radiating petals. The white petals are famous throughout the world for plucking and intoning: "he loves me, he loves me not." To the majority, a daisy ends right there.

For many years, the hybridizers have been busy making daisies look not-like-daisies, and the results are astonishing. The daddy of them all is Grand Marconi, a superb flower that blooms from spring to fall. The Grand Marconi is a cross between the daisy and the chrysanthemum and looks more like the latter. The flower's diameter is around six inches, or more, and it stands on a sturdy stem over one foot and a half tall. The petals are shaggy, and the face of the flower is concave rather than flat. Grand Marconi are very easy to grow and one small plant, this year, will gather unto itself ten or fifteen plants to be divided next spring.

The Ester Reed daisy is another hybrid. Ester Reed looks more like a dahlia than like a daisy. The center of the flower is compact and rounded, while the petals are recessive, giving an impression of the well known dahlia.

The chiffon daisy is exactly what it is named. The flower looks like a shower of carefully cut chiffon strips that are held together by the yellow center. These three varieties of daisies can be planted together to complement each other. The Grand Marconi makes an excellent background; the Ester Reed, being shorter than the Marconi, fits in the center; the chiffon daisy grows closer to the ground and makes a feathery, soft border.

It is never too late to plant this series of daisies. In the spring, older plants can be separated, but as the season advances, one must get the established plants in one gallon cans. Any nurseryman can supply you with this series of daisies.

There is so much to be said for daisies. They require small care, are seldom attacked by pests, and do not require the regimen of weeding and watering necessary for other plants. Daisies and delphinium make good companions. Delphinium, also, has been given to us by the hybridizers, for delphinium is only glorified larkspur. The most conspicuous one is Pacific Hybrid delphinium which has large flowers on the tall stem and each flower carries "a bee in its center" of a contrasting color. Delphiniums come in many colors, but to me the cobolt blue is outstanding. This deep blue is not seen as frequently as other colors and is the pet of specialists. Can you visualize a corner in the garden banked with delphinium, Grand Marconi, Ester Reed and chiffon daisies? Yum, yum, it makes my mouth water just to think of this picture. Now you go yum-yum yourself and fix up that corner of your garden.

June 15 Is Deadline For Second Quarter Income Tax Payment

Rules for the second income tax period of 1949 were outlined today by Collector of Internal Revenue James G. Smyth of the First California District.

The majority of taxpayers who filed estimated declaration March 15, have already received statements of the balance due. These persons should make the second quarterly payment by June 15. Personal checks, money orders, and cashiers checks may be used in making payments through the mail. The collector urged all taxpayers to enclose the statement with their check.

Collector Smyth also pointed out that members of the Armed Forces are now paying income tax on their taxable earnings the same as civilians and must follow the same tax rules and regulations.

Any person who receives $600 of taxable income with $100 or more of this amount not subject to withholding tax, must file a declaration.

A declaration must be filed by every individual who receives wages subject to withholding tax in excess of $4,500, plus $600 for each exemption claimed.

A married couple receiving wages subject to withholding tax in excess of $4,500, plus $600 for each exemption claimed, must file a declaration. For example, wages in excess of $5,700, if married and filing a joint return, or if single and claiming a dependent. The amount goes up $600 for each additional exemption, including any exemption for age or blindness.

Original estimated declarations to be filed before June 15, will not be subject to penalties if the taxpayer can show to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Internal Revenue that the delay was due to a reasonable cause, and not to willful neglect.

Amended returns should be clearly marked "Amended."

Anyone deriving two-thirds or more of his income from the operation of a farm or ranch is not required to prepare an estimated declaration until January 15, 1950.

ANCESTORS of Modern Water Works

Still to be seen, scattered here and there around Europe, are the remains of ancient Roman aqueducts, ancestors of our modern water works—mute evidence of the might and skill of engineers who lived and worked in the heyday of the Roman Empire.

These great structures may be justly numbered among the wonders of the world, built, as they were, entirely by hand, without the benefit of modern machinery. Julius Frontinus, Water Commissioner of the City of Rome, A.D. 97, thrilled by their usefulness and magnificence, made this enthusiastic statement in a book he wrote on the city's water supply: "Will anybody compare the idle Pyramids, or those other useless though renowned works of the Greeks, with these aqueducts, with these many indispensable structures?"

In Frontinus' time there were nine aqueducts serving the City of Rome. The first to be built was the Aqua Appia, constructed about 312 B.C. Then came the Anio Vetus, 272 B.C., the Marcia, 144 B.C., the Tepula, 125 B.C., the Julia, 33 B.C., the Virgo, 19 B.C, the Alsietina, A.D. 10, the Claudia, A.D. 38-52, and the Anio Novus, which was built on top of Claudia, A.D. 38-52.

As the Roman Empire spread over Europe, other structures were built in places far from the City of Rome, and it is a common thing to find the remains of Roman aqueducts in almost any country once possessed by the Empire. Two glorious examples are the beautiful Pont Du Gard, near Nismes in southern France, and the imposing Aqueduct of Segovia in Spain.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Neill Rush's Fifth Grade

My class and I went up to the high school to the biology laboratory. It was very interesting. We saw things that we are studying about. We are studying about sea animals. We saw many things that we had never seen before. We asked her many questions and found out all the answers. We saw a human body and everyone was saying that some day we would see and study the things that were there. They were taking care of some chicken eggs in an incubator. Miss Larson was very nice about showing us around.

—Nancy Powell.

JAMAICA

On Saturday we went swimming before we had breakfast. After breakfast we went to the market at Saint Ann's Bay, a small town in Jamaica. We saw fruits, meats, hats, baskets and bread. We also went to the dry goods store and got some things. Then we went back to the house we stayed in at Jamaica. We got in the car again and went on a little tour around the place. We saw silk, cotton plants, pimiento, grapefruit, and many other trees. We all took pictures and then went home for supper.—Peter Jenkins.

We gave Miss Rush a "goodbye" party. Bonnie Wager's parents brought ice cream and we had cake and punch. too. Bonnie's brother came, too. He is four years old. We had lots of fun at the party. When Miss Rush came into the room we threw flowers on her. She is going to Hawaii.

—Mervin Sutton.

Our class went to Miss Larson's class at the high school. We are studying about shells and all forms of sea life. Miss Larson showed us some very pretty shells. She showed us some clay jungle figures. I thought that they were very nice. Then we saw a bird in a jar. It was in some kind of water so that the bird would not rot. She had some eggs that she kept in a warm place so that they could watch how the chick forms. We saw a skeleton of a human body and Miss Larson told us about it. I liked the visit very much.

—Delores Yementes.

We have been studying about sea life so Miss Rush took us up to Miss Larson's biology laboratory. She has some beautiful shells. There were some models of pre-historic monsters that some high school children had made. We have studied about sea urchins, sea cucumbers, sponges, starfishes, crabs, abalones, and scallops. Some of the sea animals have funny ways of doing things. The crabs crawl out of their shells when the shells are too small for them.

—Gail McHarry.

Famed Cowboy Stars Are Salinas Rodeo Entries

Entries of stars of the open ranges who risk life and limb to provide thrills for modern America continued to pour into California-Rodeo offices in Salinas, as the June 16 opening of the thirty-third annual western classic in Salinas neared.

The list of entries for the bronc and Brahma bull riding, steer wrestling, team and calf roping, wild cow milking and wild horse racing events reads like a page from rodeo's "who's who." It includes champions, near champions and ambitious youngsters of the western thrill sport, Arena Director Ki Silacci revealed.

Buck Sorrels of Tucson, Arizona, world champion calf roper, tops the group. He also has entered the team roping, steer wrestling and wild cow milking events.

Then there's Bill Ward, Angel's Camp, runner up to Carl Olson, Cardston, Alberta, last year's saddle bronc titlist, who will attempt to topple Olson from his throne in 1949. Jim Egan and Bart Clennon, also of Angel's Camp, will compete too. Both will attempt to tame their broncs, bareback fashion, and in addition Egan is to have a date with a Brahma bull.

Other entrants include: Olin Sims, Tucson; Tommy Rhodes and Al Skelton, Mammoth, Arizona; Asbury and Eddie Schell, Coolidge, Arizona. Expected to compete are Everett Shaw, Stonewall, Okla.; Sonny Tureman, John Day, Ore.; Barney Willis, White Salmon, Wash; Jerry Ambler, Klamath Falls, Ore.; Gene Pruett, Tieton, Wash.; and Chuck Sheppard, Phoenix.

PAINTING MISSIONS

Mrs. Bessie Lasky of Los Angeles, old friend and student of the late William P. Silva, was a guest at Pine Inn this week. Mrs. Lasky is literally painting her way north, making oil "portraits" of the California missions which are to be exhibited in the East. While here, Mrs. Lasky began a canvas of the Carmel Mission and visited with friends, among them Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Silva.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" (Deuteronomy 33:27). This is the Golden Text of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, June 12. The subject is "God the Preserver of Man."

The following citations are included in the sermon:

The Bible: "Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint" (Isaiah 40: 30, 31).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures say, 'They that wait upon the Lord . . . shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.' The meaning of that passage is not perverted by applying it literally to moments of fatigue, for the moral and physical are as one in their results. When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease" (p. 218).

Madelynne Greene Dance Group Presents Excellent Program

By Jane Vial

If you are one of those who can "take your folk dancing or leave it alone," you probably missed the performance of the Madelynne Greene Festival Workshop in International Dances at the Forest Theatre last week end, and if so, you denied yourself a rare treat. Madelynne Greene herself is a professional dancer of unquestioned ability, and her troupe of 22 upaid young San Franciscans presents remarkably polished performances. Perhaps the fact that they are amateurs makes them outstanding, for their sheer love of dancing is quickly communicated to the audience. The ingenuity apparent in their costuming, which they provide themselves, and the occasional technical slip here or there only make the authenticity of their dances the more convincing.

The programs are artfully arranged for contrast, presenting now a gay scene and again an almost melancholy one, but reminding one always that the love of dancing knows no racial barriers.

Madelynne Greene's enchanting personality shines in all her solo work, whether in a humorous vein, as in Impressions of a Swedish Hambo as done by various unlikely characters, or in the exquisitely delicate Kandingian or Sua-Sua of the Philippines. Bruce Good's solo work with Miss Greene in the Philippine dances is certainly worthy of the name "professional," and the same may be said for Victor Dextre with Miss Greene in the amusing Panamanian Tamborita.

The Sumatran Piring, or Sword Dance, had in its symbolical movements a startling likeness to modern dance technique, and Lari Bogk's skillful interpretation had an almost hypnotic quality to it. Soloists Joan Hoagland, Celita Dextre, Mary Lauber, Tecla Barry and Page Merill all deserved the applause with which they were met.

The entire group, or smaller combinations, presented fresh and true impressions of native dances from the Ukraine and other parts of Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, German provinces, and Portugal.

That no pains are spared to obtain and learn the authentic steps and music is evident. Their lovely, colorful costumes are another indication of the seriousness of purpose of these young professional and college people.

Their concerts last weekend were sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula UNESCO committee, and it is to be hoped that the committee will again give Carmel the privilege of seeing the Festival Workshop.

Fashion Show

Values for the summer budget might have been the theme of Maxine's fashion showing at the weekly Pine Inn luncheon event on Wednesday. Commentating for the shop was its charming co-owner, Mrs. Marjorie Lee Luna, who looked summery, indeed, in a glazed print peasant skirt worn with an eyelet embroidery blouse.

Mrs. Anthony Kastros opened the show, appearing in a stunning ensemble consisting of a basically simple white crepe dress, its red cummerbund sash matching the trim of a navy bolero. With the outfit, whose dress could easily make the basis of a summer wardrobe, she carried a white linen bag from Kramer's Shop for Women.

Mrs. Kastros next wore a two-piece, slim lined town dress with a button-back jacket of red linen and a skirt of white linen. A pique print, with dancing yellow and brown figures on a white ground, had a small brown bolero, and her last choice was a pink wool fleece topper, whose lining is guaranteed for the life of the coat, which she wore over a white dress in washable Sandringham.

Mrs. Anne Fry looked lovely in a chambray frock of soft gray trimmed with a darker shade of gray, its neckline featuring an unusual diagonal treatment which left one shoulder bare. Dotted Swiss was used in a cool dress with full skirt, trim bodice, and a modest neckline with a small rolled collar. Her next choice, a sun dress with straps, was made up in bold plaid gingham in shades of green and white; its matching bolero had a white pique collar and cuffs on the short sleeves. Over a light brown silk shantung afternoon dress, cleverly detailed with self-buttons, Mrs. Fry tossed a short white fleece coat, a particularly useful summer item.

Mrs. Rose Marie Manthey modeled three swim suits of diversified design, of which the most outstanding was a sheath-like suit of metallic lastex. Another was the youthful "Swish" suit, combining satin lastex with polka dot taffeta, the strapless bra employing the taffeta, which was also used in an encircling, diagonal pleat trim on the lastex trunks (the ruffle being treated to stay that way); the third was a three-piece outfit in a cotton batik print, to be used for swimming or as a play suit, with a boxer jacket which one could put to other uses. Mrs. Manthey also showed a garden-pretty dress of irregular polka dots in green and white, complemented by a crushed suede belt in matching green. The clever beach clogs on her feet were from Kramer's.

Miss Helen Prosser wore two practical weekend wardrobe outfits, one of which sported an action-back, belted jacket in red Lanami, a linen-like fabric. With it was a skirt of natural linen and straight, slim shorts of the same material. Its striped wool jersey blouse was also used with the next combination, a commodore jacket of whisper gabardine in red, blue gabardine skirt and matching blue shorts. These coordinated outfits, plus a dress or suit, should see you through a weekend with a minimum of fuss. For a swim suit to take along, the two-piece strapless sharkskin, its bra petal scalloped for flattery, would be just the ticket, since it's designed for perfect control with perfect freedom. A useful extra, if there's room in your suitcase, would be the full Terry cloth beach robe. Miss Prosser alsp appeared in mix-or-match corudroys, ideal for country living and carefree comfort.

As a final item in the showing, Mrs. Helen Leighty modeled one example of the practical denim outfits available at the shop. This particular one was a sun dress with big pockets in a brilliant yellow hue with matching bolero. Sanforized and washable, these denims are also on hand in shorts, jackets, pedal pushers, etc.

Out of spring and into summer were the fresh flower arrangements by Mrs. Virginia Nelson of N. B. Flowers, who also arranged pretty touches of flowers for the models to wear. The smart bags and beach clogs were from Kramer's, and El Paseo Beauty Salon contributed its services for the models.

Guests At Morses

The John Boit Morses will have as their guests this weekend Edward Carnarvon Flynn of Pasadena, Warren Ingersoll of Philadelphia, Lewis Lapham of New York, A. Thomas Taylor and Lester Armour of Chicago, Artemus Gates of Long Island, and George Richardson of Rancho Santa Fe. All the visitors will be here for the Swallows Tournament at Cypress Point over the weekend, which accounts in part for their widely separated residences.

New Members for AWVS

Three new members were welcomed into the American Women's Voluntary Services at a meeting of the Monterey County Unit held last Friday at the home of Mrs. William McNamee in Del Monte Forest. They are Mrs. J. T. Harris, Mrs. Arthur O. Jackson and Miss Dianna Burke, all relative newcomers to our community.

Mrs. E. W. Cochrane, chairman, presided at the meeting, during which tentative plans were discussed for various AWVS projects. Mrs. Edwin Atherton, AWVS shop chairman, reported on the progress of the shop, which is located at 707 Del Monte avenue in Seaside.

AWVS will appreciate your donations of usable and clean items, ranging from household furniture and accessories to children's clothing and toys; in fact, don't throw away anything you think might be salvaged. Call a member of the collection committee and they will be glad to pick up your donations. In Carmel, Mrs. Elizabeth Harnisch, 689-R, Mrs. A. Gordon Bagley, 1780-W, or Mrs. Edwin Atherton, 1993-M; Carmel Valley, Mrs. Malcolm Cox, 1186-R; in Del Monte Forest, Mrs. Charles Sargent, Monterey 8090.
